

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for displaying video streams. A pair of video streams are received. One of the video streams is modified to produce a modified video stream, which is displayed along with the other video stream to produce a PIP window having the appearance of a seamless video stream. A machine-readable medium having stored thereon instructions for displaying video streams.